

Guidance for choosing the right Attendee and Pass Type

Attendee Type

- Exhibitor or Sponsor: An exhibitor or sponsor is an individual or organization that has a physical or online booth presence at the ISC Exhibition. The booth staff typically possess an exhibition pass for exhibitors.
(This pass is required for booth personnel to access the exhibition hall outside of exhibition opening times.)
- Exhibitor + Speaker: An exhibitor who is scheduled to speak at the ISC Vendor Program. This definition excludes booth presentations.
(This pass is required for booth personnel to access the exhibition hall outside of exhibition opening times.)
- Speaker: A speaker will be speaking at the ISC Contributed or Invited Program.
- Student: As a student you are currently enrolled at an academic institution and able to present a valid student ID or other proof.
- Media/Analyst: A limited number of complimentary registrations are available for media and analysts covering the HPC sector. You can register in advance, but you must be accredited before the event.
- Regular Attendee: A person who has purchased one of the following: the ISC Conference, Exhibition, Tutorial, or Workshop passes.

Pass Type

- Industry: The industry rate applies if your organization operates as a commercial business. Please check against your organization's legal form if you are unsure.
- Academia: The academia rate applies if your organization operates in a non-commercial environment and aims to promote education and research.
- Student: The student rate applies to students currently enrolled at an academic institution and able to present a valid student ID.
